

Your Life Mastery Reading

About you:

Your aura's colour:

I see your primary colour as green. This green looks like a sunlit forest on a summer's day, filled with silvery-white sparkles. It speaks of your connection to those around you. Your compassion and kindness light up everyone around you. I also see a few white areas which seem filled with joy and inspiration. These could represent your angels. And there are many areas of streaming pink - bubblegum pink that can indicate a special affection for those in your life.

You have always felt deeply connected to the subtle energies around you but you were not encouraged to explore your intuitive or psychic nature. However your environment was creative and interesting and the religious background supported you in ways that you may not have seen at the time. You were taught to live in alignment with a higher principle. This brought about a desire to explore your inner mind, meditation perhaps, and consciousness.

You seem to be generally optimistic. You have faith and feel life deeply.

You are not afraid to let go of your identification with an earlier self. With strong creative energy, you can reinvent yourself as often as you like. You could spend a little more time in nature. You have an affinity for the natural world and it is a free source of insight and strength and learning. Not to mention the fact that it's always a good idea to goof off now and again - to give yourself a break.

You feel blessed by life. You are generous and openhearted.

Your purpose is to hear your own heart's call and shed the shoulds and should nots that that you have picked up along the way and feel belong to you. Your purpose is to know that you are enough - to feel the truth of it in your bones - and to act out of that knowledge.

A vehicle you can use to move into alignment with your life purpose: Don't look too far ahead and don't look too far back. Find a way to balance work time and pleasure time - to separate the responsibilities you carry for home and family against a real need to cut loose and goof off now and then so that you can remember who you are.

Your Current State:

You are deeply connected with your inner self, your intuition and your spiritual life. You like time alone for contemplation or meditation and always find that a bit of distance from things makes you feel better able to manage the busy world. You are a strong person who has made a choice to live your life in accord with your conscience and what you feel is right.

You have a strong, logical mind and love seeing patterns in things, enjoy analysis and find problem solving fun. At the same time, you are receptive to deep insight and are active psychically. You could have a hard time separating logic and feeling.

You value honesty in all communication. Sometimes you may have found it hard to see where honesty becomes tactlessness, and have struggled to maintain your integrity while trying hard not to hurt anyone's feelings. Above all, you have been working hard to stay honest with yourself, even if that meant accepting parts of yourself that you'd rather not accept.

You have reached a milestone in one of your relationships. You are finishing with old business - business relating to self-esteem or personal value. With fresh insight you are seeing this sort of thing in a new way and it's giving you a new appreciation of the struggles we all go through. The worst is behind you but you are still exploring this issue with a sense of curiosity and joy. You learn something new every day.

Something has changed in your life lately that has given you a new lease on life. The energy that drives you is not the drive to excel or succeed, but the creative energy that loves to explore new things. You are dancing life, trusting life and trusting yourself in strong ways. And you may be soon to embark on a new project or your life or work may soon be starting a new phase. This is to be enjoyed.

You have strong links to the females in your family. You have much to learn from them and much to share of your own. I see a change for the better in your domestic environment. Understanding has brought about a new level of peace and understanding.

Your worldview is large. You love the natural world and feel happiest when you feel connected to all creatures and people all over the world. You feel sustained by this connection. You are currently entering a time of quiet after some turbulence. Your life is settling down and new options and opportunities to explore are opening up for you.

What's ahead:

Work, Career or Vocation:

Now: You seem to be facing some sort of choice around work. You're not in a rush, but I see you pausing to see what your choices are. You may feel like you're stuck between the devil and the deep blue sea.

A year from now: You are restructuring your working conditions. You may be moving your office, changing your job or shifting to a different focus in your work. The energy here is like cleaning-out-a-closet energy. You may have to pull the whole lot down, see what of it is still useful, throw away what is not and restructure before putting everything away again.

More distant future: I see completion of an old system/job/career and the beginning of a new one. I also see success, possibly travel and new ventures.

Emotional Life:

Now: You have been making some kind of fresh start or new beginning in your relationship. It's good strong positive energy.

A year from now: Old patterns that have needed to be seen and processed are coming to the surface. But you're making good progress with them. Deeper understanding, new ideas and an unwillingness to fall into the same old traps are your saving grace here. You see what's happening and look for alternative ways to handle things.

More distant future: I see celebration - perhaps new family members (marriage or birth). I see happiness and good fortune.

Health:

Now: You are learning to trust yourself and your choices.

A year from now: Even though what you feel is right for you may run counter to the current thinking, you are coming to know your body well enough to choose well. Do not compare your situation or progress with others. It's not the same.

More distant future: I see lots of energy. You are up for whatever comes along.

Money:

Now: Something has just changed in a big way financially. You are finished with an old pattern and starting a new one and the dust is still settling.

A year from now: There may be a move of house or other deep change in the way your money sits. It will involve shifting from one way of managing things to another. Even without a house move, the money moves around.

More distant future: Things may tend to worry you but you don't really have a cause for concern. Wonder what's coming next, rather than worry.

Personal Growth or General Happiness:

Now: If you've been saying "Yes", against your feelings or will, just to keep the status quo or to smooth over a family or social situation, it may be time to say "No". Without apology. Without explanation. Without fear of the repercussions. It's come to the point where the results of continuing to say "Yes" are becoming worse than the results of saying "No." You may be surprised at how easy it is when you leave no room for negotiation or compromise.

A year from now: I see you going with the flow - letting life carry you joyfully, trusting that regardless of your preferences, it is taking you in the straightest possible line to a continued future of happiness. I see you enjoying the small pleasures of every day. Life is good to you.

More distant future: I see happy news - a marriage or birth, a party or a promotion. I see you celebrating life.

Overall:

You have a talent for seeing things behind things. You are aware of energies that others ignore consciously. You are sensitive. Not just to the things and people around you but to subtle nuance. I see synchronicity. You feel you are being guided to the right moves. This will bring about travel and new experiences, new places, new people in your future. You look like you will enjoy each stop along the way.

Sometime in your future, I see you working in nature somehow, surrounded by trees and animals and other wildlife and feeling blessed that you can be in these surroundings.

Your future continues to be filled with insight, opening awareness and psychic work and a focus on spiritual growth and understanding. This life is a life in which you are finishing with a lot of old karmic patterns. This frees up your energy and moves you to the next level.
