

Your Mini Reading

You asked: My business seems stagnant. It's still going along okay and I have lots of ideas for the future, but it feels quiet, as though it's waiting for something to happen. Is there anything else I can do to invigorate its energy?

Your reading:

It is providing a basic level of security and income for you, so that aspect of things is fine - not a concern. But things like this become stagnant when they are readying themselves for change.

Look at some aspect of the business you are holding onto. Are you determined to have it present itself in a certain way? Could your approach be more open and less introverted? Or less haphazard and more dignified? If you've been going alone, could you invite in a partner or silent partner? Are you interested in two things and unable to bring them together in the same arena? Maybe it's time to let the business hum along as it has but open a second one to fill a need that isn't being met by the current one.

Start a new project. Make it be something that doesn't fit in with the current arrangement. Make it fun, yet practical. Let it take you in a direction you hadn't considered. This can give you the boost you need to get things moving again.
